President Quayle, A. M., one of the brightest young men in the United States, will deliver a lecture at the Opera House next Friday evening. His word painting is something grand. It flows forth like some beautiful song. If the people of Carson fail to hear the eloquent gentleman, they will indeed miss a rare treat. Reserved seats may be had at Thaxter's without extra charge.

Another Discovery.

James Clarke and George Gardner returned from Pine Nut yesterday. They made a location on a ledge 40 feet wide, and brought away considerable rock. Coming home they concluded the rock worthless and threw it away, but a few pieces remained in the buggy and when ground up and horned out showed free gold. It is about a mile from Zirn's mine and regarded by miners as a very promising find, as the ledge is well defined.

The Effects of Wealth.

Mr. Zirn who is locator of the principal claim at Pine Nut, being the only claim upon which any work has been done, is an eccentric individual. He sleeps at night between two Henry rifles and works in day time between two pistols. He will permit no one around his claim at any time. His head is turned completely.

Funeral of Mrs. Teede.

Yesterday the funeral of Mrs. Teede took place from the M. E. Church, Rev. Logan officiating. An impressive service was held and there was a large number of floral offerings. A long line of carriages followed the remains to the grave.

Lecture.

The prospect of a large crowd being present at the Opera House Friday evening next, is promising. W. A. Quayle, A. M. will entertain the audience in his happiest vein of word painting, while the musical selections directed by Prof. Haymanson will be a feature of the entertainment. Box sheet open at Thaxter's drug store, where seats can be reserved without extra charge.

CHATAQUAS.

A Large Attendance Expected at Lake Tahoe.

Rev. T. E. Sisson is in town perfecting arrangements for the assembly of the Chataqua society which is to meet at Hot Springs, Lake Tahoe, on Tuesday next. The session will continue for ten days or more and promises to be well attended, as they already have 200 people booked for whom they must provide accommodations. A daily six-horse coach will begin running on Thursday next from Truckee to Hot Springs direct. It will connect with the evening passenger trains each way, and will thus provide a ready means of reaching the lake for people desiring to go from Reno. The assembly promises to be very interesting, as able speakers and lecturers will be present to entertain the visitors. Among them will be Dr. Hanson and President Quayle, both eminent in their respective lines. The President will lecture in Carson on Friday evening at the Opera House.

Rev. Sisson says that any who have tents will find it advantageous to bring them along as everything will be crowded.

The Pratt Fund.

Yesterday was a good day for the Pratt Fund. A good many subscriptions came from children who walked in smiling with their dimes. One little fellow who did not want his name mentioned, when asked why said: "Mother gave me the bit to buy candy and if she finds out I gave it away she might kick." The chances are one hundred to one that the mother would not have kicked, but that was the boy's idea of it and nothing could change him.

The Examiner says that Mrs. Pratt is suffering considerable pain but the wounds are doing well. She is described as a very handsome, intelligent woman with a perfect form and a skin as rosy as a sea shell.

So far the APPEAL has not had the pleasure of receiving subscriptions from any of its city contemporaries. Ten cents would be better than nothing even if the papers themselves did not work to aid the fund. We feel certain that if they only opened their columns to subscriptions they would, by reason of their very large circulation reach several hundred readers and perhaps take money faster than the APPEAL has done.

We would like to see some other paper jump in on this proposition and beat the APPEAL out of sight. Yesterday's subscription to the fund was as follows:

Geo Thaxter and family	70
Adolph Jacobs and family	50
A M McCabe	25
The Monarch saloon	20
Tracey Chedie	10
Will Cahil	10
Joe Platt and wife	20
Klein's brewery	10

Amy Doane	10
Nellie McLaughlin	10
Putnam Bros	25
Prior Contribution	$2 70
Total	$8 85

A Choice Publication.

One hardly realizes what a state of perfection printing and bookmaking has reached until a copy of the American Bookmaker is read.

It contains all the latest intelligence regarding books, engravings and printing, and a perusal of its richly embellished pages is a rare treat to any book lover.

It keeps abreast with the art and is more in touch with the necessities of the craft than any other publication. It is published by Howard, Lockwood & Co., 126 Duane St. New York.

Golden-Morris.

The APPEAL has received the wedding card of Frank B. Golden of this city; and Miss L. Morris of Empire.

The happy couple were united at St. Mary's Cathedral, San Francisco, on Monday last. They will spend their honeymoon in Monterey. The APPEAL joins the rest of Carson in congratulations.

DAN SIZES US UP.

Dan DeQuill writes the following to the Irrigation Age:

This being again a season of rain, snows and abundance of water we hear nothing more of the building of reservoirs and water storage. Nothing is said of the $100,000 appropriation to build our first reservoir. It is the old story of the Arkansaw traveler and cabin. They will go on trusting to luck until we have another season of drouth. All this time too, there is talk of bringing people from Tennessee and other places to settle up the country. If the people of Tennessee could bring with them some of the water that is driving them out of their own country it would be all right, otherwise they would not be long settled here before they would be gaping like a nest of young robins for water they let behind them.

With first class water storage on the Carson and Walker rivers, and with Lake Tahoe and Donner Lake fully utilized as storage reservoirs, western Nevada might be made to sustain a dense population. There would be water for not only all the valley, but also all the fine bench lands—the lands on which would be grown the best crops of all kinds, and where would be the orchards and the vineyards.

Had we half a dozen men with sagacity, enterprise and wealth of Newlands, we should see Nevada bloom and blossom like a rose. He has done more for the water storage than other man in Nevada. Most of our people here appear to be perfectly willing to see him do it all. There would not be a dissenting voice, unless he should ask some "native" to put up four or six bits to finish up the last rod or two of ditch.

When Heard From.

When Major McLaughlin hears from Sexton Martin and Dr. Burwell, the men whose expenses he paid to go to San Francisco and have a good time, the letter will read something as follows:

DEAR MAJOR:—We took one good whirl in the gilded halls, and the $100 went. Please send us money to get home on. Burwell is too sick to write. Yours,
